HALO

OVERVIEW.

Built by Feadship in 2015, HALO's striking exterior profile was designed by the Harrison Eidsgaard studio who created her huge silver arches that curve across the superstructure. This unmistakable profile, along with her six-cabin flexible accommodation layout, abundance of deck space, remarkable interior design and fun loving professional crew, makes this special yacht a firm favourite on the charter market.

HALO's vast sun deck has a beautiful oversized jacuzzi, plentiful seating with retractable awning, bar, outdoor cinema and a large circular dining table under the hard-top. A second dining and seating area is available on the bridge deck aft with ample shade. With no shortage of comfortable deck furniture, guests can relax on either of the three deck levels and the more formal seating area located on the main deck aft. The open foredeck space can also be used for exercise or entertainment.

The modern interior is entirely unique with light and dark wood, glamourous black and white photography and bronze inlays. Normally known for their residential interiors, Bernardi and Peschard's styling brings a highly sophisticated vibe to HALO. The main lounge comprises open plan seating and a formal dining area with exquisite tablewear. The bridge deck sky lounge is equally resplendent but offers guests a more relaxed social space with a high bar table seating six, games table for four, cinema and sliding glass doors opening out to the aft deck. It creates space and allows natural light to flow freely.

The main deck master suite includes his and hers bathrooms with shared sauna shower and access to a private office area with a reclining daybed. This area could be used for young children or a cot for a baby as it is located immediately off the cabin with access directly from the hallway if preferred. The four guest cabins on the lower deck can be king sized double cabins or twin cabin configurations and the VIP cabin on the bridge deck is a fixed queen sized double.

Side opening aft garages allow for easy deployment of her two custom tenders and toys, whereas the huge swim platform serves as an excellent beach club. A gym with a range of fitness equipment completes her extensive inventory.

HALO is a very comfortable yacht with zero speed stabilisers allowing guests to sit back and relax without the rocking or rolling at anchor. In addition, HALO's first class service crew and award-winning cuisine will only add to guests' overall enjoyment.
